

A Medical Tourism Company You Can Trust

SkyMedicus is a HIPAA compliant medical tourism company with a digital technology marketplace that connects patients with the world's leaders in medicine.

The SkyMedicus team prides ourselves on taking the time to thoroughly credential every provider through a robust and advanced screening process.

We have met each provider and have visited every hospital or clinic. Each provider is highly educated and many have completed both medical school and residency in North America, Europe or Australia. They are all focused on safety first, extremely experienced, leaders in their field, globally recognized and many are the inventors of a new procedure or medical device.

When healthcare solutions aren't affordable or available locally, SkyMedicus connects patients with our global network of world leaders in medicine. For the past decade, we've helped tens of thousands of patients find the affordable care and cures they have required or desired for years.

SkyMedicus now offers employers who self-fund their employee health benefit plan a "turnkey" solution to save employers significant health benefit expense while offering the employee/dependent the opportunity to travel. Most employers save between 45% to 85%.

Our provider network is an elite collection of global healthcare professionals that can service the need of offering the right solution at an affordable cost without diminishing the quality of care. As the leader in medical tourism, SkyMedicus doesn't just facilitate finding a doctor—we allow patients to focus on taking care of their health while we take care of everything else.

Management Summary:

Amy Holcomb is a founder and CEO of SkyMedicus Inc., the world's leading provider of Medical Tourism resources and information, having helped more than 10,000 clients to save money and access medical treatments not available in their local area. Her vision is to impact the healthcare industry by providing healthcare information, alternatives and cost savings to make quality healthcare affordable to all via an accessible platform.
